

Why work for Albaugh?

Working in Albaugh Europe will liberate you, providing you with the freedom to operate, be creative, feel empowered, take decisions and work with like-minded people. Albaugh has a company culture unique for the Ag-Chem industry - competitive but supportive, where you will be valued and respected for your contributions to our success. Working from home, even post COVID, you will be part of the European-wide team, working efficiently and effectively to deliver on clear and simple business objectives. The aspirations to grow the business are clear and the opportunity is huge and extremely exciting. Albaugh is a top 10 global player in the market but still operates with same entrepreneurial spirit and market focus that it did from its beginnings, this is something the other large bureaucratic and internally focused players are missing today.

So, if you are tired of bureaucracy, meetings for the sake of meetings and your work not being recognised, now is the opportunity to change this, now is the chance to join "Albaugh - Your Alternative"

About Albaugh

"Albaugh – Your Alternative" is the short way to describe what we are all about. We create and supply crop protection products used by farmers across the globe thereby making their farming operations more economical. We are ultimately helping produce and secure an affordable supply of food to help feed and support the population of the world.

Albaugh today is a global business, operating with a direct presence in key agricultural regions including: North America, Mexico, Brazil, Argentina and Europe. From these locations we are also serving other markets such as Central America, Andean Region, South America and Africa. In each of our key regions, we operate manufacturing facilities which assure the quality and competitiveness of the products that we supply.

Albaugh's focus on efficiency is a critical business component and is embedded in the teams responsible for active ingredient sourcing, supply chain, formulations, production, development, regulatory affairs and sales support. Albaugh also has an Innovation Platform for novel products, including our CoAxiom Wheat Protection System recently launched in the US.

Today the ambitious goals, entrepreneurship, focus, persistence, and integrity have never been stronger in our company culture.
